

TYPICAL LAWYER: Wiley Nickel is a typical lawyer, working for himself instead of the people. Nickel bragged on his blog when he helped people who committed violent assaults get away with their crimes and routinely advertises to clients accused of assaulting a police officer.

Wiley Nickel’s law firm, The Law Offices of Wiley Nickel, PLLC, operates a criminal law blog on its site, which contains anti-police rhetoric:

The Law Offices of Wiley Nickel, PLLC

Committed to defending your Legal Rights

Wiley Nickel lives and works in Cary, North Carolina. In 1998, he graduated from Tulane University with a major in Political Science and a minor in History. After college Wiley went to work for Al Gore and travelled with the Vice President as part of his national advance staff. Following the Gore campaign he earned his law degree from the Pepperdine University School of Law in 2005.

While in law school Wiley worked as a law clerk in the Ventura County District Attorney's Office where he gained valuable criminal trial experience before taking and passing the California bar exam. His first job out of law school was for the Merced County District Attorney's Office where he worked as a Deputy District Attorney with a focus on prosecuting DWI offenders.

Wiley later joined the Law Offices of Joseph Uremovic where he focused on civil litigation and family law. When the opportunity came to join the Obama campaign in 2008 Wiley jumped at the chance. He spent three years travelling with President Obama as a member of his national advance team.

In 2011 Wiley left his work for the White House to return to the practice of law. Wiley devotes the majority of his practice to the areas of criminal law, family law, traffic tickets and DMV issues. The Law Offices of Wiley Nickel was started with the goal of providing the best representation possible for all of his clients.

Experienced, Compassionate, Aggressive Criminal Defense

While defense attorney Wiley Nickel works as the primary attorney for all of his cases, he does have an associate attorney, a team of investigators, forensic consultants, and support staff to call on to help achieve the best possible result in every case. He limits his case load so that he can focus on providing the best possible legal defense to all of his clients. Every case is a top priority and the goal is to have your case dismissed with a focus on being able to expunge your charges at the end of the process.

When he is not working, Wiley is an avid family man, distance runner and golfer. He loves North Carolina college sports and is hoping this is the year for Cam Newton and the Carolina Panthers.

Wiley is licensed to practice law in North Carolina and California.

- In a blog post titled "What Should I Do During a Traffic Stop?" from April 2012, Wiley Nickel wrote on police behaviors during traffic stops, saying that officers "can make your life totally miserable." "Police officers have a ton of discretion and can make your life totally miserable if you give them attitude. They have egos just like anyone else and if your behavior is offensive they can use their discretion to follow the letter of the law and add some extra charges. If you're later in court and the officer [sic] says you were not "polite and cooperative" there are many judges who will use their discretion to give you stiffer penalties. Be respectful at all times." (Wiley Nickel, "What Should I Do During a Traffic Stop?," The Law Offices of Wiley Nickel, PLLC, 4/25/2012)

- In a blog post from February 2014, Wiley Nickel claimed a "nice win" for a client "charged with Assault and Communicating Threats." "We just a had a nice win for a client charged with Assault and Communicating Threats. We had the Communicating Threats charge dismissed and received a not guilty verdict in District Court on the Assault charge. This case was a citizen initiated case where the alleged victim went to a Wake County Magistrate and was able to have an assault and communicating [sic] threats charge taken out against my client. / Unfortunately the way the law works in North Carolina virtually anyone can go to a Magistrate with a complaint of assault and communicating threats and have charges filed. Unfortunately these cases appear too often but generally they are easy to beat with the help of a good attorney." # Another win for the Law Offices of Wiley Nickel

February 02, 2014

We just had a nice win for a client charged with Assault and Communicating Threats. We had the Communicating Threats charge dismissed and received a not guilty verdict in District Court on the Assault charge. This case was a citizen initiated case where the alleged victim went to a Wake County Magistrate and was able to have an assault and communicating threats charge taken out against my client.

Unfortunately the way the law works in North Carolina virtually anyone can go to a Magistrate with a complaint of assault and communicating threats and have charges filed. Unfortunately these cases appear too often but generally they are easy to beat with the help of a good attorney.

If you find yourself charged with assault or communicating threats in Wake County North Carolina contact a communicating threats lawyer at the Law Offices of Wiley Nickel, PLLC. We offer free consultations with an assault and battery lawyer at 919-585-1486.

- In a blog post from April 2016, Wiley Nickel claimed that another client of his received a 'not guilty' verdict in a trial for assault with a deadly weapon. "This month Attorney

Wiley Nickel had another Not-Guilty verdict for one of our client's [sic] in Wake County. The client was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. After a trial in District Court, our client was found Not Guilty. The State of North Carolina needs to prove every element of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. We presented a solid defense and the judge agreed that the State of North Carolina was unable to prove their case beyond a reasonable doubt. Generally you will need to try your case in Wake County as the DA is unlikely to dismiss an assault with a deadly weapons case absent a trial. Our assault lawyers enjoy trying cases and believe that an aggressive defense is often the best offense. If you are charged with Assault & Battery, Assault on a Female, or Assault with a Deadly Weapon in the Wake County or Raleigh area, contact The Law Offices of Wiley Nickel to speak with Raleigh Assault Lawyer Wiley Nickel."
